

Safcor Panalpina's bulletin to our valued partners

24 May 2011

Volcanic Ash Alert

Ash from Iceland's Grimsvoetn volcano, which began erupting this past week-end, has reached parts of Ireland and Scotland. Flights to/from the affected areas have already been cancelled or delayed. Continued eruption for any lengthy period or unexpected changes in wind patterns could force the diversion of aircraft across Europe and the disruption of both cargo and passenger movements in the coming days.

We will advise clients of any further developments that may affect their cargo movements
